Top Tier

Our customers drive for companies that operate in niches where professionalism, customer service, and image matter just as much as driving skill.

Most drivers do not start in a custom ARI Legacy Sleeper pulling high-end freight.

The first goal is not "making huge money." The first goal is becoming:

- Insurable
- Dependable
- Professional
- Trusted with expensive freight

Premium Carriers Want Experience

Because these companies haul:

- Million-dollar cars
- High-end RVs
- Trade show equipment
- Specialized aerospace freight
- Household goods for affluent clients

The driver is part trucker, part brand ambassador.
The truck becomes part of the company image.

How Drivers Afford a New Truck + ARI Sleeper

- Company driver first
- Save cash + improve credit
- Become lease operator or owner-operator
- Buy used truck first
- Build business income history
- Eventually finance a premium truck/sleeper combo

Banks want to see

- Consistent income
- Time in industry
- Strong credit
- Business history
- Down payment
- Low debt load

It's a Career Arc, Not a Shortcut

The more common path is:

- CDL school → experience → reputation → specialty freight → owner-operator → and then premium equipment
